If any additional pre-anesthetic testing is necessary due to your pet's specific health status, we will discuss that with you in advance.

Our goal is to make your pet's dental experience as safe and comprehensive as possible in order to minimize discomfort and to prevent long-term health issues that can occur as a result of dental disease. As an AAHA accredited hospital, we are committed to meeting the highest standards of care to ensure the well-being of your animal loved one, and their safety under general anesthesia.

After your pet's teeth have been professionally cleaned, the doctor will review their dental x-rays and re-assess the overall condition of their teeth and gums to determine if any additional dental procedures, such as extractions, are recommended. Additional costs will apply for any other dental work that needs to be performed, but the doctor will discuss their recommendations with you, as well as pricing, prior to additional dental work being done.
